Bob Westermann named College's first full-time head football coach

Gallaudet President Jerry C. Lee has named Bob Westermann the College's first full-time football coach in what is the first step in upgrading the athletics program at the College.

"Our top priority is academic programs at all levels. Athletics is another aspect of the program in which we want to do well," Lee said.

While the College is placing its first emphasis on football, all of the College's athletic programs will be examined by an Athletic Advisory Council which was appointed this month.

In naming Westermann the College's first full-time football coach, Lee said he wanted to "elevate the team to a level of excellence."

"We want to give our best effort in every area," Lee said.

Westermann, who taught physical education at MSSD and began the football program there in 1977, assumed his new position last month.

Under his direction, the MSSD Eagles never had a losing season. From 1978 to 1983, the team racked up 52 wins, 13 losses and one tie. This past season the team finished with an 8-1-1 record, outscoring its opponents 250 to 64.

In 1979, finishing the season with a 9-0 record, the team outscored its opponents 362-16. With a 9-1 record in 1980, the team scored 318 points while holding its opposition to 52. In 1981, the team scored 314 points and let up 62 to finish with a 9-0 record.

While the Eagles have enjoyed a seven-year winning streak, the Gallaudet Bison haven't had a winning season in recent memory. The team finished this past season with a 1-4 record.

Both Lee and Westermann said past football coaches were not to blame for the team's losing seasons. The problem, they said, lay in the fact that the part-time coaches were only able to work with players for a few months a year.

A full-time coach, on the other hand, is able to maintain contact with team members throughout the year—working with athletes both in off-season training and in a support role to ensure that they are doing well in their studies.

"Any coach who thinks that the only priority should be practice and weight training is doomed to failure," Westermann said. "Football can be a driving force to push students toward a degree. We're here to provide that support system toward a degree. We'll be keeping in touch with the players' academic progress and serving almost in a counseling role."

Westermann, whose office is in the Field House, is now in the midst of laying the groundwork for the team. From preparing data forms on players to setting up a weight room to hiring assistant coaches, Westermann is building the football program from scratch.

Crime prevention program established

The Department of Safety and Security is implementing a new crime prevention campaign entitled Crimebusters, a program modeled after the Neighborhood Watch crime prevention effort. The name and logo of the campus program have been adapted from the popular movie "Ghostbusters."

The campaign will offer faculty, staff and students the opportunity to practice crime prevention principles with a goal of reducing the chances of becoming a victim of crime.

Gallaudet does have a low incidence of crime on campus and a good record of solving the crimes which occur. The campus is patrolled 24 hours a day, and Gallaudet has the best police officer-to-student ratio of any campus in the metropolitan area.

But the purpose of the Crimebusters campaign is to utilize everyone on campus, not just campus police officers, in the practice of crime prevention. "We realize that for us to do our jobs effectively we need the cooperation and support of the entire community," said

Ed Glenn of the Department of Safety and Security. "With everyone pulling together to support the campaign, we hope to see a reduction in the number of crimes which could be prevented if the proper precautions are taken."

The campaign consists of two parts. The first part is known as the Crimebusters tip of the week. Each week the Department of Safety and Security will provide a crime prevention tip in On the Green. The tips will focus on a variety of topics including how to deal with strangers on campus and how to properly secure offices and College property.

In addition to the tip of the week, full length articles will be published in On the Green on matters such as parking lot break-ins in an effort to keep employees informed of any criminal activity on campus.

The second part of the campaign involves training programs. Representatives from the Department of Safety and Security will speak to groups on campus in programs which will discuss

Supreme Court rules Section 504 requires programs, meaningful access

by Sy DuBow

A unanimous Supreme Court recently decided that Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act requires recipients of federal funding to make reasonable accommodation "to assure meaningful access" to their programs.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, writing for the Court, clarified its earlier decision in Southeastern Community College versus Davis, involving a hearing-impaired nurse. Marshall explained that: "The balance struck in Davis requires that an otherwise qualified handicapped individual must be provided with meaningful access to the benefit that the grantee offers."

The Court found support for its view in the federal regulations requiring reasonable accommodation in sections covering employment, buildings and colleges and universities. The Court reaffirmed the validity of these regulations.

The Court also found that federal recipients may be guilty of discrimination from the effect of their actions even if there is no proof they intended to discriminate. Marshall wrote that Congress saw discrimination against handicapped people "to be most often the product, not of invidious animus, but rather of thoughtlessness and indifference—of benign neglect."

The Court pointed out that it would be "difficult, if not impossible, to reach" most of the discrimination.

The Court then held that Tennessee's policy to reduce Medicaid-funded hospital days from 20 to 14 was not discriminatory. A group of handicapped Tennessee Medicaid recipients had challenged this policy as having an adverse impact on disabled individuals. The Court concluded that both handicapped and non-handicapped people would have the same access to these Medicaid services.

First locally produced series closed captioned

The television series "It's Academic" is now closed captioned—the first locally produced series in the greater Washington area to be closed captioned.

The National Captioning Institute (NCI) is closed captioning the 1984-1985 season of "It's Academic." "It's Academic"—the longest running television quiz show—features panels of Washington area high school students competing against each other in tests of academic prowess. Funds for captioning the show were provided by Giant Food Inc. and The Morris and Gwendolyn Cafritz Foundation.

According to NCI, the 1984-1985 television season offers approximately 70 hours of closed captioned programming nationally for hearing impaired television viewers. This represents an increase of 35 percent over last year.

Sponsored R&D

Grant/contract deadlines

Provided below are application deadlines of selected federal programs that offer potential grant or contract opportunities for Kendall Green faculty, staff and graduate students. More details on these and other programs of interest can be obtained from the Office of Sponsored Research at x5030 (voice or TDD).

Handicapped children

Applications are invited by the Department of Education under the program for Innovative Programs for Severely Handicapped Children and Youth.

It is estimated that a total of $6,562,500 will be available to support 64 new projects under the priority areas of: demonstration projects for severely handicapped (other than deaf-blind) children and youth; approaches to total life planning for deaf-blind children and youth; skills training, placement and supported employment for deaf-blind youth; demonstration projects for deaf-blind children and youth; state-wide systems change; communication skills development for school-age deaf-blind children and youth; and social and community skills development for severely handicapped children and youth.

The deadline is April 8 and applications are expected to be ready on Feb. 4.

For more information, call the Office of Sponsored Research at x5030 or the Department of Education at 732-1161.

Students registered for classes at Ely Center early last week. Spring semester classes got under way Jan. 17 and will continue through early May.

Westermann named football coach

"There is no football system in place now," he explained, noting that offensive and defensive playbooks must be written before football practice begins this summer.

But first he will hire eight part-time assistant coaches. The College is now advertising those positions and should begin the interview process late this month.

Westermann is also now in the process of establishing a weight room at Hughes Gym so that a year-round strength program for the athletes can be implemented in the near future. Athletes will lift weights for one and one-half to two hours a night four evenings a week throughout the year, Westermann explained.

In addition to setting up a weight room, Westermann is now contacting coaches at other Division III schools to schedule games for the upcoming season. Because Gallaudet has no conference affiliation, the coach must contact coaches of other teams to schedule games.

Recruitment of athletes is another item on Westermann's agenda. His first priority, he said, is recruiting Gallaudet athletes for the squad. "The key people I want to work with are the athletes here," he said. "I'm actively recruiting people on campus—they're the priority people."

He also hopes to attract to Gallaudet students in both residential and mainstream programs around the nation. Toward that end, he attended last month's Central States Schools for the Deaf basketball tournament in Indianapolis, IN. Later this month he will travel to the Mason-Dixon tournament to visit southern schools.

He will outline his plans and goals for the team at the first team meeting scheduled for Jan. 24.

His overall goal, he said, "is to establish a program at Gallaudet that will be a source of pride for students and the Gallaudet community and be a source of excitement for the entire deaf community."

Lee believes Westermann—who himself played collegiate football, captained the Trenton State College team in 1972 and was named a New Jersey State College All-Star in 1971 and 1972—is the person who can accomplish that goal. "I watched Bob when he was coaching at MSSD and I was incredibly impressed with his knowledge of coaching and the respect he's earned from the players."

"This effort in football," Lee continued, "represents what we're about at Gallaudet—giving our best effort."

crime statistics and offer crime prevention suggestions. There will also be time for question and answer sessions during the one-hour programs.

"The programs will also offer the campus community an opportunity to make suggestions for improvement. Crime prevention is not a one-way street, and we need input if the campaign is to be a success," Glenn said.

Anyone interested in arranging for one of the presentations should contact Glenn at x5563.

Tip of the Week: Office Security

Many thefts occur in unoccupied offices during working hours after the occupant steps out for a few minutes. Don't take any chances. Lock your office if you leave for any length of time during the day and at the end of the day. If you need suggestions about office security, call x5555 and an officer will come to your office and make recommendations.

Gallaudet College is an equal opportunity employer-education institution. Programs and services offered by Gallaudet College receive substantial financial support from the Department of Education.

Morton Nadler of Virginia Polytechnic Institute gave a presentation to the Gallaudet Research Institute earlier this month on Telesign, a video telephone system which (at right) transmits a line drawing of a person signing. Nadler—pictured at left with Ray Trybus, dean of the Research Institute—is developing Telesign. Researchers are collaborating with Gallaudet College on Telesign. Gallaudet will assist Nadler in pilot-testing the usefulness of the device which transmits enough information for signs, facial expressions and the identity of the signer to be clearly distinguished. The research has been made possible through a grant from the National Science Foundation.

DRCC task force to hold forum Jan. 29

The Deafness Related Concerns Council (DRCC) Task Force on Deaf Studies will sponsor a forum next week to determine student interest in a possible Deaf Studies Program at Gallaudet.

While the forum is being held for students, faculty and staff members are welcome to attend. The forum is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Ely Center Auditorium.

Forum speakers will include representatives from the University of Maryland Women's Studies Program and Afro-American Program as well as three members of the DRCC task force.

Students will be encouraged to raise questions and concerns and sign a petition to show their interest in setting up a Deaf Studies Program at Gallaudet.

Task force members will then prepare a report to be submitted to the DRCC to make recommendations for establishing a Deaf Studies Program at Gallaudet.

The forum is the final step in the work of a special DRCC task force set up last fall to explore the feasibility of setting up such a program of study.

There are approximately 17 deafness-related courses offered at the undergraduate level and additional courses offered at the graduate level. Students can earn an associate arts, bachelor's or master's degree and have a minor or a certificate in deaf studies.

The DRCC task force has been meeting each week to discuss the purpose of deaf studies. The group has also been collecting materials from colleges and universities which have established deaf studies programs. Boston University and California State University at Northridge are two institutions with such programs.

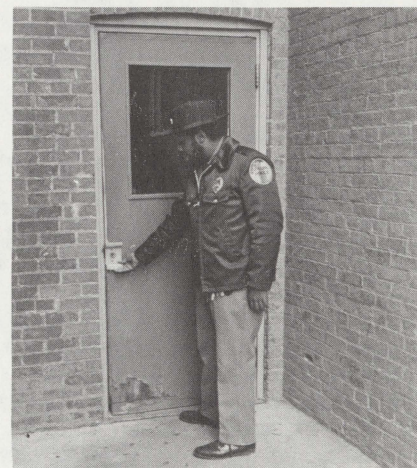

Merv Garretson, Jack Gannon and Mel Carter have addressed the task force, speaking in support of a Deaf Studies Program at Gallaudet.

Melvin Williams and Russell Adams, directors of Afro-American Studies at the University of Maryland and Howard University respectively, related to the group their experiences in setting up programs in Afro-American Studies. Evelyn Beck, director of the Women's Studies Program at the University of Maryland, also spoke to the group about her experiences in directing Women's Studies at the University of Wisconsin before coming to the University of Maryland last fall. The three reported that there are approximately 500 women's studies and 65 Afro-American studies programs in colleges and universities across the country.

Each also said that the desire to establish this kind of program must come from the student body.

The Task Force on Deaf Studies was formed last September with Barbara Kannapell named the group's chairperson. The task force members are: Robert L. Williams of the Psychology Department; Barry Crouch of the History Department; Trent Batson of the American Studies Department; Yerker Andersson of the Sociology Department; Charlotte Baker-Shenk, who worked at the Linguistics Research Laboratory; MJ Bienvenu of the English Department; Jo Ann Smyth—Mackinson of KDES; Paul Johnson of MSSD; David DeLorenzo of the Archives; and Scott Liddell of the Linguistics Department.

Special session on deafness held

"Image, Language, Culture: Deaf Studies at Gallaudet College" was the title of a special session held late last month during the annual convention and centennial celebration of the Modern Language Association (MLA) in Washington, D.C.

Organized and led by Shirley Shultz of the English Department, the session introduced the language and culture of American deaf people to members of the MLA. The meeting was held Dec. 29 at the Sheraton Hotel.

Four presentations were given during the session. Eugene Bergman of the English Department talked about images of deaf people in world literature, William Stokoe summed up and reflected on the state of linguistic research on American Sign Language, Simon Carmel demonstrated and analyzed examples of American deaf folklore with the aid of Ella Lentz on videotape performing one of her ASL poems, "Prose Poem" and Trent Batson discussed ASL poetry.

The session was the first of its kind offered to the MLA, which is one of the largest academic professional organizations in the United States. Another first for the organization was its agreement to provide interpreting services.

"It is hoped that other sessions or a permanent division of Deaf Studies may be part of the MLA in the future and that the MLA will expand its provisions for interpreting services for deaf academic professionals in the modern language and literature who have heretofore been excluded from these annual meetings," Shultz said.

Announcements

- A lunch special—"A Day at the Slopes"—will be held Jan. 23 at "Ole Jim."

The menu will include Vail vegetable soup, St. Moritz French dip sandwich, buttered corn, a winter salad bar, lemon snow pudding, hot chocolate and coffee, tea or milk. The cost of the lunch is $3.95.

- The International Center on Deafness will sponsor an international seminar on current trends in deaf education next month. The seminar will be held Feb. 4-22.

Participants will travel to Gallaudet from 11 Latin American countries. They will stay on campus during the seminar, which will be interpreted into Spanish.

Anyone interested in meeting any of the seminar participants should contact the International Center at x5316.

- The ABC Television Network's prime time dramatic series "Call to Glory" is now closed captioned through funding provided by the United States Department of Education.

"Call to Glory," which has aired on Mondays from 8 to 9 p.m., is now seen on Tuesdays from 10 to 11 p.m.

Renovations to House One are almost complete, with work expected to be finished the first week of February. Dr. and Mrs. Lee are expected to move into House One in the middle of February.

Computer discussion scheduled for Feb. 7

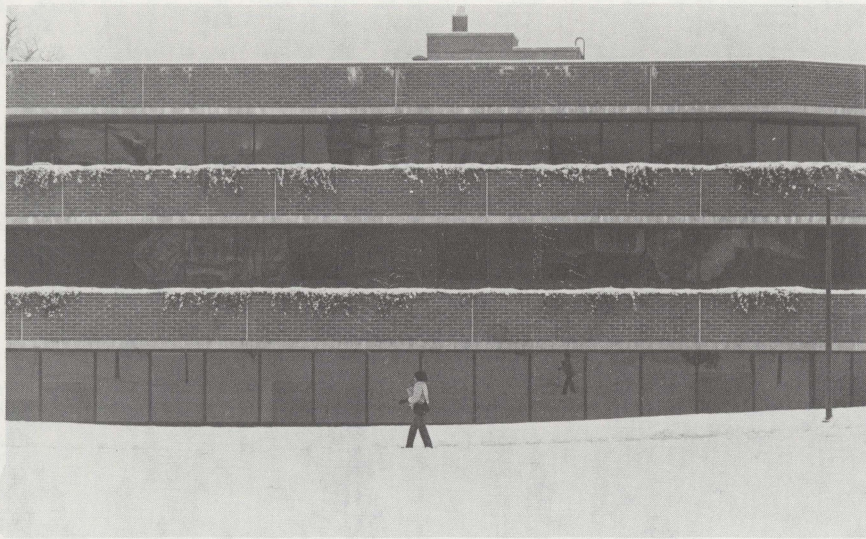

The Disabled Special Interest Group of Washington Apple PI will present a program on "Computer Applications for the Hearing Impaired" Thursday, Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. at the Chevy Chase Community Center. The center is located at Connecticut Avenue and McKinley Street, NW.

The program, which is free and open to the public, will be interpreted.

For more information, contact Jay Thal at 654-8060.

The Disabled Special Interest Group meets the first Thursday of every month at 7 p.m. at the Chevy Chase Community Center.

'Gallaudet Workout' program launched

As part of its ongoing effort in providing recreational exercise activities to meet the needs of the campus community, the Office of Intramurals and Campus Recreation will offer a new program, The Gallaudet Workout, beginning next month.

The program combines elements of the Jane Fonda workout and Jazzercise as well as accepted principles of aerobic exercise.

The Fonda exercises have been popular on campus due to their emphasis on "trouble spots" such as the abdomen and buttocks. Jazzercise offers a strenuous workout that can be followed by any person.

Aerobic exercise is defined as any exercise that brings the heart rate to "training level" (the rate varies with age) and sustains this rate for at least 20 minutes.

Cross country skiing, swimming, jogging and bicycling are considered the classic aerobic activities. However, any exercise that adequately raises the heart rate for 20 minutes can be considered aerobic.

The Gallaudet Workout begins with warm-up activities that warm and stretch the muscles and work on trouble spots. The warm-ups are followed by more active movements.

For the spring semester, special attention will be given to upper body movements, especially those involving the arms. The workout ends with a cool-down period.

Three levels of classes will be offered. Level I is for persons who are just beginning a personal exercise program. Level II is for those who have been exercising moderately for up to one year. Level III is for those persons who are conditioned to a point of being ready for a strenuous workout—that is, those persons who have been exercising strenuously and regularly for at least one year. Although the routines are the same for all levels, instructors will modify each appropriately for class members.

Instructors are Gallaudet employees. Sue Gill, Ellie Korres, Priscilla Krisman-Glenn and Debbie Moore will begin their second semester with the program and Pattie Cinelli and Agnes Muse will begin their first semester.

Open classes will be offered free of charge the week of Jan. 28 to give participants a head start as well as to give interested persons an idea of what to expect from the classes.

All classes are 45 minutes in length. The schedule for the week of Jan. 28 is as follows.

Two classes will be offered Monday, Jan. 28 at noon and 5:15 p.m. The noon class will be led by Moore at the Dance Studio. The class at 5:15 p.m. will be taught by Muse and will meet in the Adaptive Room at the Field House.

On Tuesday, Jan. 29 a noon class will be taught by Krisman-Glenn at the Dance Studio. Korres will lead a class at 4:45 p.m. in the Eurythmic Room at KDES.

Moore will instruct a class Wednesday, Jan. 30 at noon at the Dance Studio. Another class will meet at 5:15 p.m. in the Adaptive Room of the Field House. Muse will teach that class.

The final classes of the week will be offered Thursday, Jan. 31. Krisman-Glenn will lead the first, scheduled for noon at the Dance Studio. Korres will instruct the second class, with the class to meet at 4:45 p.m. in the Eurythmic Room at KDES.

Public library saluting deaf teachers

In honor of the 200th anniversary of Laurent Clerc's birthday, the District of Columbia Public Library will salute deaf school teachers this year. Laurent Clerc, America's first deaf educator, was born on Dec. 26, 1785.

Next year the library plans to honor parents of deaf school students as 1986 will mark the 225th anniversary of the birth of Mason Fitch Cogswell, a physician who sent Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet to Europe to seek teaching methods for his deaf daughter and her deaf friends.

The following year will mark the 200th anniversary of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet's birth. During 1987 the library system will honor hearing teachers of deaf students.

Anyone interested in an agenda of library programs for any of these three years should call 727-2255 (TDD only) or 727-1186 (voice) and leave a message.

The Library Council of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments celebrated Deaf Heritage Week Dec. 2-9 with educational library programs held in five jurisdictions of the metropolitan Washington area.

Art Kruger, the founder of the American Athletic Association of the Deaf, was recognized during the week along with a number of local deaf leaders and athletes.
